Baltimore Lawyer and Yachtsman Now Admits That Ella Winter May Have Been a Suicide— Rumor of a Rival.

HIS COOK UNDER ARREST AS A MURDER SUSPECT

Second Autopsy, Forced by the Stene ographer's Relatives, Reveals That She Was Not Drowned.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BALTIMORE, Md., June 12.-Capt. D. Meredith Reese jr., yachtsman lawyer of this city, who admits that he was probably the last person to see Ella G. Winter, the stenographer, alive is now the central figure in the most sensational mystery Baltimore has had for years. It is now established to the satisfaction of the police authorities of Baltimore and Anne Arundel County that Miss Winter was murdered and one arrest in the case has already been made. John Rice, a negro who was cook on Reese's houseboat, was arrested in this city last night and is now in jail in Annapolis. He denies any knowledge of how Miss Winter came to her death, but there is a pronounced opinion among those most familiar with the circumstances of the case that at least two and possibly several more persons know just how the pretty stenographer met her end.

the girl's death must have been acquestion by the Anne Arundel county authorities he admitted that theory of suicide, but insisted he was ot the cause. "A year ago there may have been cause for jealousy," he said, "but not recently. There was no other girl." Report says there was another girl on the Reese houseboat on the night

When Reese was asked if he had intended marrying Miss Winter, he replied, "No, and she knew it." FRIENDS SAY GIRL LOST HOPE OF WEDDING REESE.

Friends of the girl to-day said they had heard Miss Winter declare she felt despondent because she had no hope of becoming Capt. Reese's wife. It was then that Reese admitted that the suicide theory was possible, yet he maintained that he doubted it. The authorities believe Reese knows more than he has told. One theory is that Miss Winter drowned herself from Reese's launch and was not taken to Flood's wharf by him as he claims. The organs of the girl are being examined to-day for possible traces of poleon, as no water was found in the lungs by the autopsy.

It was on the evening of Thursday. June 4, that Miss Winter, a tall, attractive. vivacious woman, thirfy years old, left her home to pay a visit to Reese. The man Reese is a prominent figure in Baltimore by reason of the high standing of his family and also by reason of his tremendous size. He is of huge bulk, handsome. forty years old and has been noted as a favorite with women. His wife divorced him a few years ago.

GIRL A VISITOR TO THE REESE

HOUSEBOAT. Reese kept a houseboat on Curtis

Bay and during the summer months lived on the boat with Rice, his negro cook, who is also a man of great physical development. Miss Winter frequently visited the bouseboat. Both Reese's family and the family of Miss Winter knew of the relations existing between the lawyer
